DevExpress VCL 15.2.2 With DxAutoInstaller 2.1.5.epub

It is possible to transfer a maximum of 30 ECTS from courses passed at other educational institutions in Denmark or abroad as electives. If the students wish to study a full term at another institution ("Moblitetsvindue") it is possible during the third term of the master programme.

It also possible to replace one elective course (7,5 ECTS) with an academic internship (See chapter 6 for further details).

4.1.2 Compulsory courses

Compulsory courses cover the three major subject areas, security, risk and strategic management, and subjects are interrelated throughout the course of study. Compulsory courses are:

- Security Studies and Strategy (7,5 ECTS)
- Political Risk Analysis (7,5 ECTS)
- Security Risk Management (7,5)
- Knowledge Production and Evaluation (7,5 ECTS)
- Organisation, Management and Risk Communication (15 ECTS)

The final compulsory course is an individual choice between the two compulsory elective courses:
- Transformation of the Public-Private Divide (7,5 ECTS) or
- Intelligence (7,5 ECTS).

Students may choose both of the compulsory elective courses in which case one of the courses will count as an elective course.

Please refer to chapter 6 for detailed course descriptions.

4.1.3 Elective Courses

The remaining courses consist of electives from within 4 categories; students may choose between electives from a catalogue of subjects with a minimum of 3 courses within each category. Individual choices, based on previous experiences, competences or special interests, are possible and it is not required to choose course in all categories. However, the electives are grouped in order to ensure that graduates obtain a deeper understanding of risk and security decisions and management (categories 2 and 4), as well as a broad perspective on international and regional political developments of importance to the security and risk practice (categories 1 and 3).

The four elective categories are:
Category 1: Comparative Politics: Regions, Institution and Trends
Category 2: Decision Theory and Tools
Category 3: New Threats
Category 4: Organisational Management, Ethics and Accountability

Please refer to chapter 6 for detailed information regarding elective courses.
